 ters examined before the Conferences?*

Ans. This was strictly attended to by calling over their names one by one before their respective conferences.

Quest. 13. Who have died this year?

Ans. 1. The venerable Francis Asbury, late Superintendent or Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church in America, who was born in England, near the foot of Hamstead-Bridge, in the parish of Handsworth, about four miles from Birmingham in Staffordshire, on the 20th of August, 1745. His parents were people in common life, remarkable for their honesty and industry, and had all the comforts of plenty about them.—
 There were but two children, a daughter and son; the daughter dying in infancy, he might be viewed as an only child. From his childhood he neither dared an oath, nor hazarded a lie. The love of truth is not natural; but the habit of telling it he acquired very early—and so well was he taught, that his conscience would never permit him to swear profanely: he abhorred mischief and wickedness, although his playmates were amongst the vilest of the vile. From such society he often returned home uneasy and melancholy.— Sometimes he was much ridiculed, and called Methodist parson, because his mother invited any people who had the appearance of religion, to her house. By the conversation and prayers of one of these he was awakened, before he was quite fourteen years of age; it was now easy and pleasing to him to leave his company, and he began to pray morning and evening. It was not long before he began to inquire of his mother, who, where, and what were the Methodists; she gave him a favourable account, and directed him to a person that could take him to Wednesbury to hear them. “The people appeared very devout, men and women kneeling—saying amen. Now behold they were singing hymns—Sweet sound! Why! strange to tell, the preacher had no prayer-book; and yet he prayed wonderfully! what was yet more extraordinary, the man took his text and had no sermon book: Thought this is wonderful indeed! ’Tis certainly a strange way but it is the best way. The preacher talked about confidence, assurance, &c. of which all my flights and hopes fell short.” After this some others, with himself met for reading and prayer; they had large and good meetings; and were much persecuted, until the persons at whose house they held them being frightened, they were discontinued. He then held meetings frequently at his father’s house, exhorting the people there, as also at Sutton—Colfield, and several souls professed to find peace through his labours. He met class at Bromich-Heath, and met in band at Wednesbury. He had preached some months before he publicly appeared in the Methodist meeting-houses, when his labours became more extensively witnessed—some were amazed not knowing that he had exercised elsewhere. Behold him now a local preacher, the humble and w ling servant of any and every preacher that called on him by night or by day; being ready, with hasty steps, to go far or wide to do good: visiting Derbyshire, Staffordshire, Warwickshire, Worcestershire, and indeed almost every place within his reach for the sake of precious souls; preaching generally, three, four, and five times a week. He was between twenty-one and two when he gave himself up entirely to God and his work, after acting as a local preacher nearly five years.

He landed in Philadelphia on the 27th of October, 1771, and immediately began his labours. On Tuesday the 13th of November, he preached his first sermon in New-York. Early in November, 1772, he visited Maryland. On Saturday evening the 28th of November, he first preached at Fell's-Point, in Baltimore. Until 1784, Mr. Asbury held his authority from Mr. Wesley. At the General Conference held in Baltimore, in the month of December of that year, Doctor Coke and himself were unanimously elected Superintendents of the Methodist Church in America, by his ordination on the 27th of the same month, made Episcopal. It would appear that Bishop Asbury had laboured in England, as a local and travelling preacher, about ten years; in America upwards of forty-four, nearly thirty-two of which he, as Bishop, held the superintendency. When we count the thousands throughout this vastly extensive continent, who with affectionate veneration, owned him as their spiritual father, we may question if a weightier charge has been committed to any man since the days of the apostles; and when the records of his life shall meet the public eye, who, that patiently examines and candidly decides, will be bold enough to say, that since that time, duties so great and so various, have been by one man more faithfully performed.

His constitution was naturally delicate. For many years he was subject to the asthma, and inflammatory affections; he also had his full share in those diseases which prevail in certain parts of our country: he was no stranger to fevers and agues, billious fevers, &c.—Finally, his almost worn out constitution yielded to the fatal consumption. The approximate cause of this disease seems to have been the influenza, with which he was taken in South-Carolina, about Christmas, 1815,—it was followed by an almost entire loss of appetite, and the formation of ulcers on the lungs. During the course of the winter, he continued to make efforts to meet the ensuing General Conference, to be holden in May, in Baltimore. Having reached Richmond, in Virginia, he preached his last sermon in that city, in the old Methodist Church, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, Sunday, March 24th. Some of his friends on account of his extreme weakness, dissuaded him in vain from the attempt of preaching; to which he replied, he must once more deliver his testimony in that place: he was carried from his carriage door to the pulpit, and placed on a table. He spoke near an hour, from Rom. ix. 28. with much feeling and effect, pausing at intervals to recover breath, and was taken back to his carriage in the same manner. On Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday he travelled, and reached the house of his old friend, Mr. George Arnold, intending to go on about twenty miles to Fredericksburg; but the weather proved too inclement. Overhearing brother Bond (his travelling companion) and the family, conversing about an appointment for meeting, he observed, that they need not be in a hurry; a remark so unusual, gave brother Bond much uneasiness. Towards evening he became greatly indisposed: about 3 o'clock that night, he observed that he had passed a night of great bodily suffering. It was proposed to send for a physician, but he would yield to no entreaties; adding, finally, that before the doctor could get there his breath would be gone! He observed, that he had no farther communication to make, having fully expressed his mind, in his addresses to the Bishop and General Conference. About 11 o'clock on Sunday, he inquired if it was not time for meeting; but recovering his recollection, he desired that the family might be called together: brother Bond sung, prayed, and expounded the xxi. of Revelation. Throughout the exercise he appeared to be recollected, and much engaged in devotion. They offered him a little barley water, but he was unable to swallow, and his speech began to fail. Observing the agony of brother Bond's distress, he raised his hand, and looked joyfully at him. Brother Bond then asked him if he felt the Lord Jesus Christ to be precious? He seemed to exert all his remaining strength, and raised both his hands, as a token of triumph; and in a few minutes after, as he sat in his chair, with his head supported by brother Bond's hand, without a struggle, he breathed his last, on Sabbath the 31st of March, 1816, in the 71st year of his age.— Mark the perfect man! behold the upright! for the end of that man is peace!

During the time of his ministry, it is presumed that he preached from fifteen to eighteen thousand sermons; presided at more than two hundred conferences; travelled on this continent, from one hundred to one hundred and fifty thousand miles, and perhaps ordained more ministers than any other man ever did!! Bishop Asbury possessed good natural and acquired abilities; read the scriptures in the languages in which they were originally written; was acquainted with the several branches of polite literature, which he appeared studious to conceal. But nothing short of deep and uniform piety could so long have secured to him; the love and confidence of a people who knew how to distinguish between the form and power of godliness. To deep and uniform piety, and talents far above the common grade, may be added a zeal and diligence that has been equalled but by few, and exceeded by none.

For almost half a century, this extraordinary man traversed this extensive continent, encountering the summer's heat and winter's cold. And when pressed with age and infirmity, and solicited by his friends to lessen his labours, his zeal prompted him on to the last: travelling and preaching till within a few days of his death; and then stepped as it were from labour, toil, and sufferings to his everlasting rest. The remains of Bishop Asbury were deposited in the family burying ground of G. Arnold, at whose house he died; and afterwards, by the order of General Conference, was taken up and brought to Baltimore, and interred in a vault prepared for the purpose, in the Methodist Church in Eulaw-street.

2. Learner Blackman, who was born in the state of New-Jersey. From the best information we are enabled to collect, our brother now under consideration appears to have been a branch of a good family. Honoured and raised by religious parents some of whom were the honoured instruments of declaring the "glad tidings of great joy,"—and He was some of the fruit of their labours. From the numerous stations he filled, and dying in the flower of his age, he must have been very young when he embraced religion. He could not have been more than nineteen years of age when he commenced his itinerant career. In the year 1800 he was admitted on trial, and stationed on Kent circuit. In 1801 he travelled Dover; 1802, Russell, state of Virginia; 1803, New-River, in the same state; 1804, Lexington, state of Kentucky. In 1805, in compliance with the request of the Bishops, he went on a mission to Natchez. Here a new scene of things presented themselves to his view. He is now to face uncivilized nations, and a wilderness of four or five hundred miles: after a journey of ten or eleven days, and lying out as many nights; making his saddle-bags his pillow, his blanket and cloak his bed, the heavens his covering, the God of Israel his defence, he arrived safe in the Territory. At the time of his arrival, Methodism was in its infancy in that country. A few had been awakened and converted to God through the instrumentality of our beloved Tobias Gibson.

Notwithstanding there were some respectable men and women friendly disposed, yet it is a lamentable truth that a number of the first settlers of that country were bankrupts in morals, and their proud hearts and irreligious lives, made them oppose the truths which this, as well as other good men delivered: as such, our first preachers in those parts had considerable difficulties. We may almost say from lisping infancy to stooping old age were united to turn them into contempt; and he shared large in the sufferings. In 1806, he was appointed to preside in the Mississippi District: God honoured his administration with success; sinners were converted, houses built and dedicated to God. In 1807 he still presided in the district; his labours were still blessed, souls converted, and his name is remembered with pleasure among that people to this day.

He left the low lands, followed by the blessings of the people. In 1808 he presided in Holstein district, State of Tennessee; 1809, continued in the same. In 1810 he was appointed to Cumberland; 1811, he continued in the same district. In 1812, 1813, 1814, he presided in the Nashville district. In 1815 he was appointed to Cumberland district; in this year he terminated his laborious, useful life, which was as follows. He and Mrs. Blackman, his consort, had been on a visit over the Ohio river; on their return, re-crossing the Ohio, while they were in the ferry boat, their horses were affrighted, and leaped out, and threw him in the river, where in a few minutes he perished among the waves.

Notwithstanding he was happily united with one of the most agreeable women, and in possession of as many earthly blessings as would have rendered him agreeable at home, yet he renounced them all, and travelled on, and scarcely preached a sermon less. At all times and places, and in all the stations he filled, he was acceptable and useful, and rendered a blessing to preachers and people. As a single man he was respected; as a man of a family, he filled his station with that prudence, dignity and propriety as became the great and good man; as a citizen he was honoured and revered. Justly was that portion of sacred truth verified, "them that honour me, will I honour."—He has left a weeping companion to bewail her irreparable loss; but she is not alone, for thousands of others will associate to mourn with her. He has returned from the stage of action, shed the garment of mortality, and gone to his reward!

3. Richmond Nolley, who was a native of Virginia. In an early period of his life his parents moved to the State of Georgia. About the year 1806 he was converted to God: while a private character, he was serious, humble, and exemplary. In the fall of 1807 he began to labour in a more extensive manner; and in the conclusion of the year he gave himself up wholly to the Lord and his work. In 1808, he was appointed to Edisto circuit, in South-Carolina; in 1809 he was stationed in Wilmington, North-Carolina; in 1810, he was stationed in Charleston, South-Carolina; in 1811 he travelled Washington circuit, in the state of Georgia. In 1812, in compliance with the request of the Bishop he went on a mission to Tombeckbee: after passing through the savage nations, a wilderness of three hundred and fifty miles, swimming deep creeks, and lying out eleven nights, he arrived at the place of destination. Here he spent two years in labouring indefatigably for the glory of God, and the good of souls; he filled all his appointments punctually; he never stopped for wet or cold, nor even for the want of a horse: he would take his saddle-bags on his shoulders and walk to his appointments, if his horse should be out of the way. He not only preached, but diligently instructed the children in every place, by catechising them regularly. He also instructed the poor blacks in the things of God, with great care and diligence. In short, he called and prayed at every house in his way, if he could obtain permission: but alas! some refused to receive, or let him pray among them; and when he undertook to entreat them they got angry, and threatened to abuse his slender body—but all this did not discourage him; he went on as a good soldier of Jesus Christ.

He was on Tombeckbee when the Indians became hostile, and the people were all fortified, and afraid to go to their plantations; he never stopped, but went from fort to fort and preached the gospel to the people. His name will ever be dear to many on Tombeckbee circuit. In consequence of his labours, and delicate constitution, he became quite relaxed and debilitated; and although he was sufficiently exhausted to have retired from the itinerant field, yet his zeal prompted him still to go forward, and accordingly he was appointed to the Attakapas circuit, in the state of Louisiana in 1814.—Here he spent one year in the midst of difficulties, such as long rides, muddy roads, deep waters, and swarms of flies and musquetoës, together with intense heat, which were sufficient to render life itself disagreeable: but his zeal and courage made him bear it with apostolic firmness. In the conclusion of the year he attended the conference. The peculiar situation of the church in that quarter, made it necessary for him to return to the Attakapas circuit. It may be remarked that he received his appointment cheerfully, and started without a murmur or sigh.

The author of these remarks accompanied him over the Mississippi, and through a vast swamp: the difficulties we had to encounter were almost incredible.— On the 24th of November we parted: the weather was wet and cold: that day he reached the place he designed, and staid with a friendly family. The weather still disagreeable. He started, and went a circuitous way to avoid a bad swamp, and some deep creeks. There was no white person living on the path: in the evening he came to a village of Indians. He was to pass a creek, and was apprehensive it would be full; he employed an Indian to go with him: when he arrived it was as he expected. There was no other alternative, but to cross or stay with the savages: so he left his verlice, saddle-bags, and a parcel of books, and attempted to ride the stream; the current was rapid, and beat him and his horse down; the banks were steep, so that his horse could not get out. In the struggle he and his horse parted; he got hold of a bush and pulled himself out—his horse swam back to the shore from whence they started. He then directed the Indian to keep his horse until morning, and he would walk on to the first house, about two miles. He had gotten about a mile on the way, when the wet and cold combined stopped his progress, (it seems he was conscious of his approaching dissolution—he had kneeled down on the ground, for his knees were both dirty, and commended his spirit to God,) there in the woods, until death gave him an honourable discharge; there lay our beloved Richmond Nolley, on the cold ground and wet leaves, at full length; his eyes neatly closed, his left hand on his breast, his right hand a little fallen off: here his life and toil ceased together.

He was not what some call the great preacher—but possessed what many an archbishop is void of, deep humility and genuine piety. He was serious and solemn: who ever saw him light and trifling? Who ever heard him speak an idle word? Always busy: he rose at four o'clock in the morning at all times and places. He was ever acknowledged to be an holy man: and even in Louisiana, in the midst of French superstition and American infidelity, he was acknowledged to be a servant of the Most High God.

We have no scruples in saying, no doubt exists but he has gone to the haven of repose, to receive that reward that remains for the faithful. Hail! happy spirit, Hail! T. G.

4. Zachariah Witten was born in Tazewell county, state of Virginia, of parents highly respectable: from whom he received a tolerable English education. He was blessed from his childhood with the instructions, the preaching and admonitions of the Methodist itinerant clergy—who always found at his father's house a comfortable home; through whose instrumentality he was awakened and converted some time in the year 1811, when he was perhaps about twenty years of age. He presently began to exercise his gift in exhortation and prayer—and his sound piety, promising talents, holy boldness, and well tempered zeal was such, as to evince that it was not designed of the great Shepherd and Bishop of souls, that he should long remain in the obscure walks of private life. The word of the Lord was like fire in his bones. He was persuaded he was called of God to preach the gospel; and his way being open, he was sent by the Presiding Elder in 1812, to Powell's Valley circuit, where he travelled until Conference, when he was admitted on trial as a travelling preacher, and was appointed to the charge of Flint circuit. In 1813, he was appointed to Vincennes; in 1814 he was appointed to Duck river: but being sick at the time of Conference, and having a desire to visit his parents, he determined to go home and stay till he recovered his health, which he accordingly did, and stayed until the spring of 1815, when he, on his way to his charge, about the last of March, was taken with the consumption, which terminated his short but useful life on the 18th of May 1815. He was very useful in all the stations he filled. He was zealous in his Master's work, and was honoured in the awakening and converting of many precious souls. But he is taken from us to the land of rest: his toils are over, his sufferings and his pain. His last words were, "I leave this world without trouble or sorrow." Happy soul! we doubt not but that he shines as the brightness of the firmament, and as a star in the kingdom of our Divine Father.

5. Joel Arrington, who was born and raised in Iredell county, North Carolina. The divine Spirit of truth deeply penetrated his mind when about twenty years of age: the arrows of the Almighty were directed to his conscience: he sought mercy in the bitterness of his soul, and obtained grace and forgiveness through the atoning merits of a Redeemer. Not long had he experienced the healing balm of a Saviour's blood, before the burden of the Lord came upon him.— He felt himself interested for a world of perishing sinners, and soon after began to exhort them to flee the wrath to come. In 1807, he came duly recommended to the Virginia Conference, held in Newbern, and was received on probation into the travelling connexion, and was appointed to Haw River circuit—in 1808, Brunswick; 1809, Orange: 1810, Guilford; 1811, Portsmouth, where in the latter part of the year he experienced great affliction of body—1812, he was appointed to Edenton; but in consequence of his ill health, was not able to fill the appointment; in 1813 he was appointed to Guilford; in 1814, continued to travel the same circuit; in 1815 his name appeared on the minutes, among the superannuated preachers. In all the above stations (as far as we are able to learn) our beloved brother Arrington laboured cheerfully and successfully in the work. Although his afflictions were great for two or three of the last years of his life, yet he never hesitated faithfully to discharge the duties of a minister, as far as his strength would admit.

We should not, perhaps, do justice to this amiable servant and minister of Christ, were we to omit to state, that he was a man of a correct and discriminating mind, pure and correct in his doctrines, vigilant and attentive to his duties, which endeared him to many with whom he zealously laboured, and before whom he exhibited his pious examples. Much indeed might be said in his praise. We might be indulged, if our limits were not so circumscribed, to speak at large of those qualities which adorned his life, which supported him under all its trying scenes.

In the summer of 1815 his health being in some degree restored, he thought it expedient to visit the Western country, for the purpose of adjusting some temporal concerns. He visited the Tennessee Conference in his journey. Scarcely had he reached the place where it was then sitting, before he was arrested by the last stroke of affliction, which terminated all his sorrows and his toil: he resigned his soul to God in peace the last day of the Conference; and is now in the possession of that glorious heritage prepared for the people of God. He died as he lived—with strong confidence, and in full assurance of the promises held out in the gospel of Christ, after having spent about eleven years in the service of God, and nine years in the work of the ministry.

Happy soul, thy days are ended,
 All thy mourning days below!
 Go, by angel guards attended,
 To the sight of Jesus go.

6. Ewen Johnson, a native of Caswell county, North Carolina, who was admitted on trial as a travelling preacher in 1808, and appointed to Mattamuskeet; in 1809 to Cumberland; in 1810 he was ordained a Deacon in the church of God, and appointed to Suffolk; in 1811 to Caswell; in 1812 he was ordained an Elder, and appointed to Mecklenburg circuit; in 1813 to Amelia; in 1814 to Terrill; in 1815 to Suffolk circuit, in which he ended his labours, sorrows, and life. He departed this life on the 4th of January, 1816, at the house of the Rev. David Waters, in Princess-Ann, Virginia. E. Johnson was of an humble and timid Spirit; nevertheless he was persevering and faithful. He was studious and zealous, and in a few years he became an acceptable and useful minister of the Gospel. It was apparent that he had wholly given himself up to the work of the ministry; and sought to glorify God in the reformation and salvation of men: and having lived and acted to the glory of God, and filled up his station in this world with perseverance and fidelity; we doubt not but that his merciful and gracious Sovereign owned and crowned him an heir of endless life!

His bodily affliction was severe and violent; he lost his speech a little prior to his dissolution, but continued to enjoy his senses. On the day before his decease, he arose, fell on his knees, clapped his hands together, and appeared to be filled with the divine presence.— Thus departed that servant of the Lord to receive his reward, a crown that fadeth not away.

7. George Askin, who was a native of Ireland—he entered the travelling ministry in 1801, and filled the following stations, viz. Montgomery, 1801; Ohio, 1802; Shenango, 1803; Muskingum and Little Kanawha, 1804; Limestone, 1805; Hinkstone, 1806; Lexington, 1807; Danville, 1808; Shelby, 1809; Scioto, 1810; Staunton, 1811; Berkley, 1812; Chambersburg, 1813 and 1814; and Frederick, 1815. His last discourse was delivered on Sabbath evening, the 18th of February, 1816, in Fredericktown, to a large congregation, with more than usual zeal and acceptability, when an inflammatory fever immediately ensued, which he bore with great patience and resignation to the will of Heaven.

On the evening of the 26th, he had a severe conflict with the enemy of his soul; but was enabled to declare that God had delivered him, and immediately commenced singing, glory! glory! glory! hallelujah!

The evening preceding his death, his afflicted companion asked him, "My dear, are you going to leave us?"—to which he replied, "Leave that to the Lord—if I go, I shall go happy." A few minutes before his departure he saw his affectionate wife kneeling by the bed, and asked her if she was willing to let him go—she replied, "that is hard to say, but I desire to be resigned to the will of God."—He answered, "that is right," and took his leave of her. During his illness he continually gave himself up to his God in prayer frequently calling upon the surrounding friends to sing and pray; expressing an unshaken confidence in God, and a desire to depart and be with Christ; and even to his last moments would raise his hands and praise God.

He retained his senses to the last, and about ten minutes before his exit asked his christian friends to sing, "O glorious hope of perfect love." Some of his last words were,—"The Lord our God, is my God,"—"O what a beautiful prospect lies before me,"—"Holiness is the way to heaven,"—"Be ye clean that bear the vessels of the Lord—get all you can in “the way to heaven—my God is mine and I am his—

 “I have been in the dark mountains, but King Je“sus has given me complete victory—glory, honour,
 “praise and power be to God.”

He died on Wednesday morning about 4 o'clock, the 28th of February, 1816, in the triumphs of faith, and with a hope full of glorious immortality.

8. Nathan Lodge, who was a native of Loudon county, State of Virginia, born August 26, 1788, and removed some time in the early part of life to Concord, in Pennsylvania. In the sixteenth year of his age he was awfully alarmed by a dream, which presented to him a view of the general judgment; and the transactions of that day was so indelibly impressed on his mind, that he recollected and often repeated them with great concern, long after the date. From this alarming moment, he set out with full purpose of heart to seek that preparation necessary to meet God with joy; and soon after this, while groaning for redemption in Jesus, the only hope, of eternal life, he found him to be the fairest among ten thousand, and to his soul altogether lovely; and rejoiced exceedingly from a sense of pardoning love.

The same year in which he was converted, he joined Society; was appointed to assist his grandfather, in meeting a class, and licensed to exhort. He was licensed to preach, at a Quarterly meeting held at Concord, Littleton circuit, February 11, 1809. He was received into the travelling connexion, March 17, 1810, at the Conference held in Baltimore, and was appointed to Alleghany circuit. In 1811 he travelled in St. Mary's. In 1812 he received Deacons orders at the Conference held in Leesburg, March 22; and was appointed to Carlisle circuit, but in consequence of some failure on the part of the preacher appointed to Juniatta he was removed there. In 1813 he was appointed to Prince George's circuit; where he married Miss Mary Hughet, daughter of Benjamin and Ann Hughet. In 1814 he was ordained Elder at the Conference held in Baltimore, March 20, and appointed to Winchester circuit. In 1815 he travelled Berkley: where on the 27th of November, about ten o'clock in the morning, after four or five days illness, he finished his course changing the cross for the crown. Nathan Lodge was a firm and safe friend; and when well known, found to be an Israelite free from guile; a very acceptable, laborious and useful minister of Christ Jesus. His great worth was more manifest in the last year of his life than ever before. In him was that scripture verified, "the path of the just is as the shining light, which shineth more and more to the perfect day." During the last three months of his life it was manifest to many, and mentioned by some, that he was ripe for heaven. In every duty of his station, it seemed as if he saw his time was short: and he made every exertion to get his work done well: He seemed to labour in sight of eternity: and this, as it always does, made such an impression on the minds of Saint and Sinner as will never be forgotten. The last week of his labours were evidently too great for the strength of his shattered lungs: His sermon was the funeral of two of his friendly flock (from 2 Tim. iv. 6. 7.) with whom he had often held sweet communion in the house of God: with what immortal joy have they met in the heavenly world, where they now sit and tell their conflicts o'er, and wait the arrival of those they left to labour and toil a little longer in this valley of tears. It was said by one of his hearers at this funeral, "Lodge is ready; and will soon be gone: and so it was. He went home from the funeral to his family and was taken sick. His disorder laid such hold on his breast and lungs that it became difficult for him to speak through the whole course of his illness. Such patience and resignation as he manifested, are seldom seen. Just before his departure he raised up his head and looked around the room; he then laid down calmly, and without a struggle or groan left his clay behind, and went to his reward in heaven.—Several of his congregation had met to hear him preach once more; but lo! a messenger proclaimed his death; they were seen in every direction moving slowly along, while from weeping hearts was heard to resound, "Lodge is dead! Lodge is dead!"

At the quarterly meeting on Saturday following, his funeral was preached from 2 Cor. iv. 17. But how awful did some of the preachers and leaders, with many of the members feel, when coming in, they heard the preacher say "Lodge is dead:" they having never heard he was sick. His name will be precious to the people of Berkley as long as they live: the love they had for him was like that of the Galatians mentioned by St. Paul, "if it had been possible they would have given him their eyes." His very grave will be a preacher to the inhabitants of Shepherdstown: they will remember his last sermon, wherein he called God to record that he was clear of their blood: and the last prayer he ever prayed in public, was on the night he was taken sick, when towards the close of the meeting he said "let us pray once more for the inhabitants of Shepherdstown." On the Sunday night of the quarterly meeting, a little boy who had gotten his soul converted, and loved him with uncommon affection, was seen weeping and praying on the grave. The people from different parts of the circuit coming to town, are seen visiting the grave, weeping. He has left a wife and one child, with many connexions, and the church at large to mourn his loss. The friendship of the people to his family, confirms the belief, that they who will serve God—God will serve them: and they who honour God—God will honour. Lodge is gone to unite with the heavenly hosts around the throne of God, where momentary ages are no more.

9. James Quail, who was born August 25th, 1785, in Cœcil county, Maryland. He was converted to God in 1799, received on trial into the travelling connexion in 1809, and travelled acceptably the following circuits, viz. Canaan, 1809; Milford, 1810; Kent, 1811; Freehold, 1812; New-Mills, 1813; Queen Anns, 1814; and Sussex, 1815.

Our beloved brother Quail was a young man eminent for piety, and diligent in the discharge of his ministerial duties. In March, 1815, he was severely afflicted, but recovered so far as to take an appointment at the ensuing Conference; and in much weakness of body continued to travel until the 7th of December following, when he was confined with his last illness. During his state of debility, he was frequently solicited by his friends to decline his public services, but he would reply, "if it were not for preaching, I should not know what to do; for it is in this exercise that God abundantly blesses my soul." In his last illness he enjoyed great peace of mind, with entire resignation to the Divine will, and on the first day of January, 1816, he departed this life, and went (we doubt not) to the enjoyment of his great reward.

“Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord, from henceforth; yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labours, and their works do follow them.”

Quest. 13. Who have died this year ?

Ans. 1. Samuel Waggoner, a native of Stokes county, North Carolina, was born the 24th day of October, 1788. Nothing very particular marked the days of his youth.

In the twentieth year of his age, 1808, he visited the State of Ohio, where he continued about fourteen months with his relations. During this time he was convinced of his wretched state as a transgressor of the law of a holy God: with deep anguish of soul he sought the Lord, until he was enabled by blessed experience to declare that Christ had power on earth to forgive sins. Shortly afterward he became a member of the Methodist church. After being thus changed by grace, and having united himself to the church of God, he returned to his native place.

In the year 1811 he was received on trial by the Virginia Conference as a travelling preacher, and was appointed to Salisbury circuit. In 1813 he was ordained a deacon, and appointed to Hanover circuit; 1814 to Sussex circuit. Some time this year he lost his health, which he never again recovered. He attended conference in 1815 in a debilitated state, having a bad cough, and strong symptoms of a consumption. He was ordained an Elder, took a supernumerary station, and was appointed to Buckingham circuit; but was not able to attend to his appointment. In the latter part of the year he travelled to the south for his health.— He did not attend the Conference in 1816, and owing to his bad state of health he was put on the superannuated list. Some time in the spring of this year he returned to his father's, where he suffered much from his afflictions. His complaint baffling medical skill, he resigned himself to the will of his Heavenly Father with much patience.

On the 13th day of April, at his father's house, surrounded by his weeping relations, he departed this life in full assurance of faith. But they did not sorrow as those who have no hope. He died the death of the righteous; they therefore could rejoice.

Brother Waggoner made considerable advancement in knowledge. He was an acceptable preacher. In his life he gave evidence to the truth of the doctrines he preached, as he lived according to the holy precepts of the gospel. He was constant as a friend; as a minister he was zealous, and frequently laboured hard.— But his sufferings are now over, and he reaps the reward of his labour.

2. Peter Wyatt, a native of Virginia, raised in the county of Gloucester. He received in early life a good English education, and was kept under strict moral discipline by his parents. When about twenty years of age his mind was so far enlightened by the spirit of grace as to enable him to see himself in his proper character as a guilty sinner. He received his first impressions at a Watch-night meeting, held in the neighborhood where he resided. While the arm of the Lord was made bare, and sinners were crying for mercy, he fell among the number of humble penitents with bitter lamentations and cries. He did not however obtain an evidence of justifying grace at this meeting. A few days after the Lord effected this gracious work, and he exultingly told what great things the Lord had done. It was not long before he felt it his duty to call sinners to repentance, and began to exhort his ungodly acquaintances to flee the wrath to come: and although he was but a youth, and little time had elapsed since he had been made a witness of pardoning love, yet the Lord blessed his efforts, and some souls were converted through his instrumentality.

In 1812 the Virginia Conference was held in Richmond: he came regularly recommended to this conference, and was admitted on trial. He received an appointment to Haw River circuit; 1813 Roanoke; 1814 Camden and Edenton; 1815 Bedford and Lynchburgh; 1816 he was appointed to Bertie circuit. In the early part of the summer his presiding elder moved him to Norfolk: soon after his arrival at this station, his health began to decline, and it was deemed necessary for him to visit the Shocco Springs, and accordingly he left Norfolk with that intention. He was not able to get farther than brother Smith's, in Nansemond county, before his disorder became so violent as to prevent him from travelling any further. But little hope was entertained of his recovery. He still retained an unshaken confidence in God, and bore his afflictions with patience and resignation, frequently expressing a desire to depart and be with Christ. His illness was long and severe; but he murmured not against the righteous dispensations of providence. The evening before his death, while several were in the room where he lay, he fell into a swoon, and to all appearance had breathed his last. The company supposing him dead, were much affected. After some time he revived, and seeing his religious friends bathed in tears, he exclaimed "Weep not for me!" He then began to speak of the joys of the righteous, and the miseries of the wicked, in a most impressive manner; then laying his hands upon his breast, died without a struggle.

Brother Wyatt was a useful and acceptable preacher: Where he was known he was respected and beloved. He was uniform and correct in his deportment in life; and strove, to set a good example to those around him. In the bloom of life he was snatched away. He is removed from the toils and sufferings of life, to inherit everlasting pleasures at God's right hand.

3. Jesse Lee, was born in Prince George's County, state of Virginia, in the year of our Lord 1753, of respectable parents; and after a painful conviction for sin under which he laboured for some considerable time, he was happily brought to a saving acquaintance with God about the fifteenth year of his age. He was mercifully preserved while in the slippery paths of youth, and conducted by the spirit and grace of God, to that wisdom and experience which prepared him for usefulness in the church of Christ. He entered the travelling connexion, and in 1783 laboured on Caswell circuit; 1784, Salisbury; 1785, Caroline; 1786, Kent; 1787, Baltimore; 1788, Flanders; 1789, Stanford; 1790, 1791, 1792, Elder in Connecticut; 1793, Province of Maine; and Lynn 1794, 1795, 1796, Presiding Elder in New-England; 1797, 1798, 1799, travelled with Bishop Asbury; 1800, New-York; 1801, 1802, 1803, Norfolk district; 1804, Petersburg; 1805, Mecklenburgh; 1806, Amelia; 1807, Sparta; 1808, Cumberland; 1809, Brunswick; 1810, Maherrin District; 1811, Amelia; 1812, Richmond; 1813, Brunswick; 1814, Cumberland and Manchester; 1815, Fredricksburgh; 1816, Annapolis; in which year he finished his course.

It is unnecessary to eulogize one, whose labours have extended almost from one end of the United States to the other. To numbers he is well known, in the vineyard of the Lord: Brother Henry Boehm who was present with him during his last illness, writes thus:

“He came over to our Camp-Meeting near Hillsboro (on the eastern shore of Maryland,) which began the 21st of August. Thursday the 22nd he preached a profitable sermon from 1 Peter ii. 5. Ye also as lively stones are built up a spiritual house &c. Saturday 24th at three o'clock he preached on 2 Peter iii. 18. “But grow in grace,” which was his last text, and ended his public labours. A large, attentive, serious and much affected congregation will not soon forget the sermon and feelings on that memorable occasion. The same evening he was taken with a chill, that was succeeded by a fever, which continued to the close of life. On Sunday morning 25th he was removed to Hillsboro, to the house of Brother Sellers, where every attention by physicians and friends was given, but all proved ineffectual. Through the first part of his illness, his mind was much weighed down, so that he spake but little. On Tuesday night, September 10th, he broke out in extacies of joy. Also on Wednesday 11th about nine o'clock, A. M. he delivered himself in words like these, Glory! Glory! Glory! Hallelujah! Jesus reigns. On the same evening he spoke nearly twenty minutes, deliberately and distinctly; among other things, he directed me to write to his brother Ned, and let him know that he died happy in the Lord; and was fully satisfied with Brother Seller's conduct towards him.

Give my respects to Bishop M'Kendree, (said he) and tell him, that I die in love with all the preachers; that I love him, and that he lives in my heart. Then he took his leave of all present, six or seven in number, and requested us to pray. This solemn night will never be forgotten by me. After this he spoke but little—Thursday the 12th in the early part of the day, he lost his speech, but appeared to retain his reason. Thus he continued to linger till the same evening, about half past seven o'clock, when without sigh or groan, he expired, with his eyes seemingly fixed on the prize." Such was the end of brother Jesse Lee.

Our deceased brother was a sound, orthodox, Methodist preacher; and allowing for the infirmities of human nature, one who sincerely endeavoured to promote the glory of God, and the happiness of mankind.

We have no doubt he has entered into rest—that he now partakes of that happiness to which he endeavoured to lead others; and if we are faithful we may expect to hail him on that eternal shore, "where all is calm, and joy, and peace." Amen.

4. John Van Schoick, a native of Monmouth county, New-Jersey. His parents were respectable members of the Presbyterian church. When about twenty years of age, while attending a Camp-Meeting, at New-Mills, in 1807, he was awakened to a sense of his lost condition as a sinner, and immediately engaged in the great business of his salvation. He continued to struggle with his unbelieving fears until November 1808, when the Lord graciously set his soul at liberty. Soon after he received the blessing, he became anxiously interested for the salvation of others, and felt it his duty to warn sinners to flee from the wrath to come. After continuing some time in the improvement of his gifts, and giving satisfactory evidence of his call to the ministry, he was admitted on trial at the Philadelphia conference in 1810, and appointed to Asbury circuit. His labours during that year will not soon be forgotten.— In 1811 he was appointed to Dauphin; in 1812 to Morris; in 1813 and 1814 to Trenton, and in 1815 to Burlington. In all these places he was acceptable, and extensively useful. In 1816 he was reappointed to Burlington; but in consequence of his debilitated state of body, occasioned, probably, by great exertions and frequent colds, his labours were interrupted; and here he ended his days. His illness, which was of the consumptive kind, he bore with patience and Christian fortitude; and such was his zeal for the cause of God, that he often appeared to forget his distress, and exhorted those who came to visit him to press after holiness. A few days before his death, looking out at the window, and seeing the snow fall, he said—"I shall never see the face of the earth again, but shall leave it covered with an emblem of the purity of that felicity which my soul is going to enjoy." In his last moments he complained of violent pain, particularly at his heart, and added—"though my flesh and heart fail, yet God is the strength of my soul, and my portion forever." His companion asked him if death appeared terrible? when he replied with a smile, "O no." In the midst of great bodily distress, he called on those with him to continue in prayer, and in his last struggles said—"keep up prayer," exclaiming "come Lord! roll on the victory, roll on the victory, holy Lord!" After this one of his friends repeated

"When shall I be delivered from this vain world of sin,
And with my blessed Jesus, drink endless pleasures in?"

He answered—"O hasten the moment my Lord!—when will these cords be loosed that my soul may take its flight?" Then looking about the room, he added—"I am going!" soon after which he sweetly slept in the arms of Jesus.

The character of our Brother Van Schoick is well known to those among whom he has laboured. He was exemplary in his life and conversation, fervent in spirit—serving the Lord and his church. His gifts, and preaching abilities were remarkably good, and it pleased the Lord to own his labours. But amidst the gospel harvest, and in the midst of his years, he is summoned away; and leaving a wife with two children, and the church to mourn his early departure, he enters upon the everlasting concerns of that world, to which we all are hastening, and from whence there is no return.

“Happy soul thy days are ended,
All thy mourning days below;
Go, by angels guards attended,
To the sight of Jesus, go.”

5. Stephen Richmond, who was born of respectable parents in the town of Hillsdale, County of Columbia, and state of New-York, on the 20th of March, 1785.

He was favoured with religious instructions in early life; yet seems to have remained without a saving experimental knowledge of divine truth until sometime in the year 1806, when he was brought to the enjoyment of it through the instrumentality of the gospel preached by the Methodists.

In 1807 he was united in marriage to Miss Deborah Calkins, a worthy member of our Church, who died about six months after their marriage.

After having spoken in public for some time he was licensed to preach as a local preacher; and in this capacity served the Church about a year and a half, when thinking it his duty to enlarge his sphere of action, he was admitted on trial in the itinerant connexion by the New-York Conference, held at Pittsfield, (Mass.) in 1810, and was appointed to Croton circuit; in 1811 to Montgomery; in 1812, he was ordained a deacon and appointed to Pownal circuit; in 1813 to Whittingham, and in 1814, he received Elders orders, and was appointed to Huntsburgh circuit. On this circuit he laboured till some time in March, 1815, when his health became so impaired in consequence of copious discharges of blood from the lungs, that he could no longer do the duties of a travelling minister, and in the minutes for 1815, was returned superannuated. After the Conference for that year, which he attended, he returned to his Father's in Hillsdale, and was never afterwards able to preach.

During the last year of his life his sufferings were great: but while blood oozed from his wounded lungs, while his whole animal system was racked with pain, and faltering nature rapidly verged towards its dissolution, he enjoyed unshaken confidence in his God.—Patience and cheerfulness were his constant companions: he conversed much with God, and made death familiar. As the time of his departure drew near, he observed to a friend, “I long since made my peace with God; I feel that my work is done, and I have nothing more to do but to wait my approaching change.” In this frame of mind, on the first day of June, 1816, in the thirty-first year of his age, and the sixth of his ministry in the travelling connexion, our beloved brother Richmond closed the mortal scene, in stedfast hope of a glorious resurrection. He was pious and zealous as a christian—as a friend affectionate and constant—and as a minister laborious and useful; but “he rests from his labours, and his works do follow him.”

Having a few spare pages, we copy the following account of the death of Mrs. Fletcher, in a letter to the Rev. Joseph Benson, from the Methodist Magazine, printed in London, for the year 1816, which we doubt not will be interesting to many.

J. S. & T. M.

DEAR SIR,

I know that your time is so valuable, and your labours of love so numerous, that it would be highly improper to address you on any subject of a trifling nature; but such I feel persuaded, you will not account the relation of a few circumstances relative to the last days of your old friend, and my Spiritual mother, MRS. FLETCHER, the widow of that greatly beloved and truly apostolic man, the Rev. JOHN WILLIAM FLETCHER, late Vicar of Madeley, Shropshire. It is not my intention to detain you by, reciting particulars respecting her birth, parentage &c. &c. all which will meet the public eye, when her life, which she has left, written by her own hand, is published. On the present occasion, it may suffice to say, she was born September 1st. (Old Style) 1739, at Laytonstone, in Essex.—Till the time of her union with Mr. FLETCHER, she was known, and loved, by the name of Miss BOSANQUET: they were married in the parish Church of Batley, in Yorkshire, November 12, 1781. On the 2nd of January following, they came to Madely, and were blessed, and made a blessing together for the short space of three years, nine months, and two days; then, on the 14th of August, 1785, death made a breach upon her earthly happiness, by rending away him who was so highly esteemed, and dearly beloved by her.

Before Mr. FLETCHER brought her to Madeley, he said, he was going to marry a wife; not so much a wife for himself, as a mother for his people. A person to whom he spake thus, gave me this information since her decease, and observed, in how extensive a manner she had verified Mr. FLETCHER's words. A mother indeed she was to his people, for more than thirty years: she comforted the afflicted, relieved the distressed, and was always ready to every good word and work. To me she was more than a mother. I have felt for her all that a child can feel for a parent; and her death has occasioned me the most painful conflict I have ever endured. I miss her day by day, and cannot but deeply mourn the loss of such a counsellor and friend, though through divine grace I do not murmur at the divine dispensation. For twenty years, I had the unspeakable advantage of her friendship, her maternal love, and prayers; for more than the last fifteen of which, I was so highly privileged as to abide under her roof, and be scarcely separated from her for one day during the whole time. Her affection to me was so great, that she often said, that to lose me would be the heaviest earthly affliction that could befall her; but she believed the Lord would never call her to drink that bitter cup. In this, and many other things of a similar nature, our Lord was pleased to give her the desire of her heart. She was most wonderfully supported under bodily affliction, and was enabled to glorify the Lord through every trial that occurred. She often said, "How good is my God! He said to me when thou passest through the fire, thou shalt not be burnt; neither shall the fire kindle upon thee." Indeed, it was to her a great delight to praise the Lord for fulfilling his promises. Many times she said, "Not one of all the good things the Lord my God has promised me, has failed of its accomplishment." Two winters ago she was given over, it being judged impossible that she could live more than a few days; but at that time the Lord had mercy on us, and restored her beyond expectation. At the beginning of this winter, I was ready to hope the bitter cup of separation would have been delayed for a longer season: she had good nights; and upon the whole, was tolerably well till the middle of November; but after her nights began to be disturbed, with cough and oppression, her strength rapidly declined. Of this decline in her bodily powers she was very sensible, and often said to me, "My dear child, do not flatter yourself that I shall be long with you; for I feel I am going." She long expected to be suddenly taken to share in the felicity of the glorified throng: dying was a subject which she frequently conversed about; it was a topic very familiar to her, and when speaking of it she said, "If it were the will of God, I should be thankful not to have a lingering illness on a sick bed;" and in this our Lord heard the desire of his handmaid, for she was not confined to her bed a single day.

During the last three weeks of her life she had a heaviness upon her, through great weakness and want of rest in the night, that caused her sometimes to drop asleep in her chair; of this she would complain, in a most sweet spirit, saying, "I am doing nothing; neither working, nor reading, praying nor praising; but sleeping." And indeed, for her to be doing nothing, was very extraordinary. She was so remarkable a person for using every moment in some profitable employ, sick or well, that it was a rare thing to see her unemployed. She used her needle in working for the poor in the last fortnight of her life. On the 6th of December, when waking out of a short doze, she said, "I am drawing near to glory!" And soon after,

"There is my house and portion fair;
My treasure and my heart is there,
And my abiding home."

And in the same afternoon she said, "He lifts his hand and shews that I am graven there!" Many more sweet words that fell from her gracious lips flow into my mind, and they will ever be treasured up in my heart; but I forbear to repeat them, fearing to swell this beyond the limits of a letter.

The day before she died, she walked out of her chamber into the next room, with only the help of my arm; but at night she was too weak to return in that way; I therefore wheeled her in a chair to the bed-side, into which, when she was got, she said, "It has been hard work to get in, but it is the last time I shall have it to do; I am brought in to die; this oppression upon my breath cannot last long." After calling me her dear child, tender nurse, and using many more expressions of a like nature, and asking the Lord to shower down ten thousand blessings upon me, she entreated me to get to bed, and that in so earnest a manner, that after I had delayed as long as I could, and again and again begged she would let me watch with her that one night, but all in vain; at last without undressing, I lay down; and she repeated the inquiry, "My love, are you in bed?" I answered, "Yes." She then said, "That's right: now if I can rest I will: but let our hearts be united in prayer; and the Lord bless both thee and me." I lay listening to the noise her breath made about an hour, when, about one o'clock, all was silent. I then thought, has she dropped asleep? and it immediately came to my mind, "asleep in Jesus." I then went to her, and found her dear head dropped off the pillow; and she looked as if in a sweet sleep; with not the least appearance of struggle or dying whatever. I took her in my arms, but no life was left; the immortal spirit was conveyed to the bosom of her God. It is impossible to say how much my spirit was affected; I kneeled down, and cried to Him, with whom she had so often told me the residue of the spirit was; and I was enabled strongly to plead that a portion of her spirit might rest on me. After about half an hour's strong crying to Him who only could help, I went to those in the house and called them up, that every needful attention might be paid to her dear remains.

It was about one o'clock on Saturday morning, December 9, 1815, that her happy spirit exchanged a suffering life for endless joy. The two last days of her life were peculiarly days of praise; in the course of which she enumerated a variety of circumstances that had occurred to her satisfaction; and it was evident that her peaceful soul, like that of good old Simon, was calmly waiting the moment of its dismissal.

A short time ago she was saying, she looked upon it as no small privilege and favour, that she had entertained the Methodist preachers in her house for more than fifty years. She had been a member of the Methodist Society for above sixty years. She was either twelve or fourteen, when she received her first ticket from Mr. Wesley, and her love to the Methodist doctrine and discipline never afterwards abated. I have heard her, when speaking of the patriarch Abraham, say, "Wherever Abraham had a house, God had an altar;" and with great propriety, the same might be said of her; for each place she lived in, whether Essex, Yorkshire or Shropshire, all her habitations had some part of them fitted up for the preaching of the gospel; that wherever she lived, souls might be gathered under the wings of the Almighty. When Mr. FLETCHER brought her to Madeley, he told her, he feared she would never raise a class in Madeley, but, blessed be God, for these many years past, she never had less than sixty or seventy in her different classes; and sometimes they have been upwards of an hundred; and many are the classes in other places that have been formed by those that were first joined in hers. How great a number, under God, owe their own souls to her, remains to be made known another day; but certain it is, her usefulness was far beyond my calculation. During the week she lay unburied in the house, thousands came to give a last look at her, who will long live in their affection; and many while looking on her remains, with tears streaming down their faces, mentioned words spoken by her, and seemed at that time to feel the force of what had before for a long season lain dormant. She was interred in the same vault with Mr. FLETCHER, on the 16th of December, the service was performed by the Rev. Mr. EYTON, of Wellington, who preached a funeral sermon while her remains were in the church.—Such a concourse of affectionate people, that truly mourned the loss they had sustained, had never before been seen, perhaps, on a like occasion, at Madeley. I must now conclude; for if I mentioned all I could wish to mention, it would be too much to be inserted in your excellent Magazine.

I am yours, &c.

MARY TOOTH.

Quest. 12. Were all the Preachers' characters examined before the Conference?

Ans. This was strictly attended to, by calling over their names before their respective Conferences.

Quest. 13. Who have Died this year?

Ans. 1. WILLIAM PATRIDGE, who was born in Sussex county, in the year 1754. He was brought up to industry; and from his childhood was strictly moral. About the 21st year of his age, he embraced religion. His name appears on the Minutes of 1780, as a travelling Preacher, and so continued for about nine years. He then retired, and continued a local Preacher about twenty-five years; during which time his wife, a pious woman, died, and left two children. He continued to keep house with them, until they were grown, and provided for. He had frequently expressed a desire to labour and to die in the travelling Connexion;—an opportunity now offered: he embraced it, and was stationed in 1814 on Koewae Circuit; in 1815 and 1816 on Alcovi; and in 1817, in Sparta, where he died on the 17th of May. As a citizen, he respected the rights of man with a nicety seldom equalled, never surpassed. Though surrounded by slave holders, in and out of the church, he would have none. As the head of a family, it may be said, industry, piety, peace and harmony, were the motto of his house;—As a Christian, numbers have professed sanctification, but he lived it. One intimately acquainted with him, writes thus:—"I have lived a near neighbour to brother Patridge for upwards of twenty years, and can, with satisfaction say, that he was the greatest example of piety, I have ever been acquainted with." As a minister of the gospel, he knew the size of his abilities, and never appeared to soar above them. In preaching, he was experimental, practical, and plain; and none were at a loss to understand him. He drew his divinity out of the bible, and read authors but little: but the scripture was his constant study, and he was profitable to many. He deeply lamented the growing departure, among us, from primitive Christian simplicity, and earnestly warned the societies among whom he laboured against it. His labours and life he wished to close together. His last sermon was on these words: "Walk in wisdom towards them that are without." That evening he was taken ill, (14th May) which continued to increase.—Physicians were procured, but in vain. His colleague asked him whether he was ready for the final summons; he said "Yes, for me to die is gain"—His speech left him, and on Saturday night after he was taken, he breathed his last. Thus he lived, thus he died. "The memory of the just is blessed."

2. ANTHONY SENTER, who was born in Lincoln county, North-Carolina, January 28, 1785. Died at Georgetown, South-Carolina, December 23, 1817.

Until eighteen years old he lived with his parents, whose circumstances in life necessarily occupied that time in manual labour, which it is to be regretted they were not able to improve in the education of such a son.

At eighteen years old, he was apprenticed in the blacksmith's business; and as with his parents he had been remarked for industry and filial duty, so with his master: indefatigable in his business, sober and moral in his general conduct, he merited and had the praise of those who knew him.

In our happy country, such a young man must succeed—So did Anthony Senter: his trade acquired, and he set up in business, he soon surmounted the early difficulties of life, and saw his way direct to ease and affluence. But what was again to him, he gladly counted loss for Christ.

We have no information of his early convictions; nor can we say any thing of his religious feelings until after his establishment in life. The pious walk and godly conversation of one of his neighbours, first led him to examine with restless concern into the nature of vital religion, and he became gradually convinced that he yet lacked that "One needful thing."

It was sometime in the year 1806, at a meeting in the Enoree circuit, that it pleased the Lord to give him an overwhelming conviction of sin. He went away from that meeting weeping and praying. On his way home (so overwhelmed was he with the sense of his lost state) he either alighted or fell from his horse, and was found late in the evening, lying by the road side in the utmost agony, pleading with God for mercy. From this time he gave himself wholly to the great concerns of salvation; nor was it long before he found the "pearl of great price."—the forgiveness of sins. He joined the church—became a class leader, and soon after entered upon the all-important work of the ministry.

His first appointment was to the Great Pee-Dee circuit, A. D. 1809. In 1810, Bladen circuit. In 1811, Little Pee-Dee circuit. 1812, Buncombe circuit. 1813, Sparta circuit. In 1814, he was stationed in Georgetown. 1815, stationed in Charleston. 1816 and 1817, Presiding Elder of the Broad-river district.

Of our dear brother Senter we may confidently say, that as a man he deserved the respect of all; as a christian, he was without offence; and as a minister, he was blameless.

A strong mind, and a benevolent heart: a single eye, and a steady purpose to glorify God; an unwavering faith, fervent love, and burning zeal—these were the exalted attributes of this good man.

While able to labour in the word and doctrine, he was abundant and indefatigable in the work; and even when so impaired by the fatal consumption as scarcely to be able to preach at all, still did he travel from circuit to circuit; and as though unwilling that any thing but death should separate him from his work, when his strength was so exhausted as to render him unable to preach, he would at least assemble the official members of his charge, and instruct them in their duty, and encourage them to their work.

At last even this was denied him.—As the veteran soldier retiring from the field, faint and exhausted by wounds and fatigue, yet only now retiring because he can do no more, so with our beloved brother: unable even for the smallest labour, and almost dead, he reluctantly gave up the toil, and retired to his house in Georgetown, whence, after a few weeks, he was taken to the "house not made with hands, eternal, in the heavens."

The writer of these remarks lived his nearest neighbour, and was daily, intimately, and most affectionately conversant with him until death separated them. In his beloved brother he witnessed the faith of the gospel, unshaken in the wreck of nature. Reduced to a living skeleton—feeble as a child, and just falling into the grave, his heart could not be separated from the work of God: He still charged himself with its interests, and felt its cares. Indeed, with death before him, and the awful glories of the invisible world just ready to be unfolded, like Jacob, gathering up his feet, composed, collected, and without dismay or dread, he fell asleep.

W. C.

3. HENRY PADGETT, a native of Charles county, Maryland: he was born December, 1791; and was converted to God about the eighteenth year of his age; and soon felt a deep solicitude for the salvation of souls. He was licensed to exhort in March, 1813; and being fully persuaded that he was called of God to the work of the ministry, he entered the travelling connexion in 1814, and was appointed to Redstone circuit; in 1815 to Rockingham; in 1816 he was received into full connexion, and appointed to Lancaster circuit; where, with his worthy colleague, he had the pleasure of seeing three or four hundred souls brought to God. In 1817 he was re-appointed to the same circuit, and again received with the warmest cordiality; and had the happiness of seeing the prosperity of the work of God.

On the second day of September he reached the house of the Rev. William Forrester, in Richmond county, where he had an appointment the following day. He complained of being somewhat unwell, but when the hour came, he proceeded to meet the congregation, and preached his last sermon, from the 21st verse of the Epistle of Jude, "Keep yourselves in the love of God." At night he prayed with the family, as usual, and retired to bed. On the morning following, he found his disorder increasing; a physician being sent for, on his arrival he pronounced it to be a bilious fever.

On seeing the family weeping by his bed-side, when his disease had become serious, he begged them not to weep for him, but rather rejoice that he was going to heaven. On a friend's calling to see him, he asked him to pray with him, and to read the last chapter in the Revelation; observing that he wished to hear the holy city talked of: while he was reading, he shouted, Glory, glory! and exclaimed, "I feel no condemnation, all is peace; give my love to the brethren, and to all who know me, and tell them to meet me in heaven." He asked what day of the month it was; on being told the eighth, he then rejoiced, and said, "on the 10th day of September, I shall be singing in heaven. By faith, I see Elijah's chariot ready to convey my soul to glory. Glorious period! welcome messenger! a few more lingering hours in the flesh, and I shall be in yonder paradisaical state." Soon after was witnessed a deeply interesting scene by all present: he exclaimed in the fullness of his impassioned solicitude for the spiritual, and eternal interest of those committed to his pastoral care, "O my poor circuit! who shall take care of my poor circuit?" Sometime after, when he was told that he was recovering, he replied with a smile, "I would rather you had said I was dying: for I had rather die than live." Every breath was prayer, and praise.

On Wednesday morning, being the day on which he died, he was heard shouting the praises of God, while alone in his room. And upon brother F's entering the room, he looked steadfastly on him, and said, "brother F. my work is done; I am dying happy and resigned." In the evening he asked who these were in the room: it was told him no person but the family. "Oh, yes!" said he, "Who are these in white? they are waiting to receive my spirit; I shall soon be gone." A little after, he said, "O death! welcome death! farewell my brother; I bid you all farewell. I am not dead, but living: Oh yes! living in heaven;" and a few moments after fell asleep in the arms of Jesus, at half past five o'clock, on the evening of the very day which he had before said, he should be employed in singing the praises of God in heaven.

Henry Padgett was a good minister of Jesus Christ; his preaching was evangelical, and his life was holy.

Through his instrumentality many were brought to the knowledge of the truth. A goodly number of the seals of his ministry are, we trust, now with him in heaven. Some had gone before, others have followed after.

It was observed by brother F. that during the period of nearly eighteen months preceding his death, he never had heard him speak an improper word, or seen him do an improper action. He had just views of Christian discipline; he enforced strictly, but mildly, that of the church of which he was a minister.

Towards the conclusion of the period of his ministerial labours, he appeared to preach as if each sermon were to be his last. The announcement of the death of our beloved Padgett produced a general mourning throughout the circuit. Indeed, their Christian fellowship, and warmest affection had been reciprocal. But their loss is his infinite gain. He rests from his labours, and his works shall follow him.

4. HEZEKIAH HARRYMAN, was a native of Baltimore county, Maryland. His parents were among the first fruits unto God of the Methodist ministry, in that part of the country. They taught him in early life the fear of the Lord; of whose instructions, he speaks thus, "I have been thankful to God for the many useful lessons which they taught me, when but a child?" He soon became a subject of the awakening grace of God; which convictions, under a variety of circumstances, continued to increase; and after a painful struggle on the day of his conversion, sustained until the hour of midnight, the Lord manifested himself to his soul, and gave him an evidence of the pardon of his sins, on the 1st day of August, 1790; and about the 20th year of his age. After which he soon began to warn sinners to flee from the wrath which is to come. He entered the travelling Connexion, at a Conference held at Baltimore City, October 1795, and was appointed to Bath circuit; in 1796 to Berkley; in 1797, was received into full connexion, and appointed to Pittsburg circuit; in 1798, to Stafford; in 1799, again to Stafford; in 1800, to Lancaster, and also 1801; from which he was removed to Danville, Kentucky: in 1802, Salt-

River and Shelby; in 1803, he received an appointment at the Kentucky Conference to Natchez, which he reached in November, and continued to labour there, and in its vicinity until March, 1805. At which time he embarked for Philadelphia, extremely debilitated; and on his arrival was appointed to Harford circuit, in Maryland. On which circuit he married. In 1806, he was appointed to Federal, now Severn circuit; in 1807, to Baltimore circuit; where he was suddenly seized with a paralytic stroke, under the following circumstances:

When on his way from a friend's house to one of his appointments, he met a boy of whom he attempted to ask the way to his appointment, and found his tongue refused obedience to his volitions, whereby he was rendered incapable of speech. The progress of the disease was further evinced by his glove falling from his hand contrary to his wishes into a stream of water, while his horse was drinking; to prevent the final loss of which he dismounted, with a view to stop its progress down the stream; to effect which he attempted to leap across a small rivulet, and fell into it: whose banks concealed him from the observation of travellers on the road; and which, but for the presence of his horse exciting curiosity would probably have been the spot of his dissolution. From which attack he never fully recovered. This, with a combination of other diseases terminated in his dissolution. Through the whole period of his last illness, he testified that he had no fear of death.

His wife and family lay with considerable weight on his mind; but he was soon enabled to resign them into the hands of his heavenly father. A few days previous to his dissolution, when visited by a friend, he found his mind serene and tranquil: and a few moments before his death, he gave to a relative the most satisfactory evidence of his preparation for the important change, and bid the world a final adieu.

Hezekiah Harryman was sound in the faith, a good and useful minister of the gospel of Jesus Christ. He has left behind him an affectionate companion and five small children to lament his loss.

“Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord.”

5. GAD SMITH. He was born in Goshen, Litchfield County, state of Connecticut, A. D. 1788. He experienced religion in his nineteenth year, and joined the church in 1807: was approved of as an exhorter 1810: in September 1811, was licensed as a local preacher on Litchfield Circuit. He was received into the Itinerancy on trial at the Albany Conference, June 1812, and appointed to Middletown Circuit, where he laboured with general acceptance, and usefulness, (God giving him souls as seals to his ministry) six months, and was then removed to Litchfield Circuit. In 1813, he was appointed back to Litchfield circuit, but was soon removed to New-Haven. In 1814, he was stationed again at New-Haven, where he laboured with success, having favour both with God and man. And though he be dead, he will long live in the grateful remembrance of that people.

In 1815, he was stationed in Hotchkiss Town, a small Village near New-Haven. He laboured here and in the adjoining towns, with increasing zeal and fervor. In September he attended a Camp-Meeting, and such was his engagedness, he laboured beyond his bodily strength. The word of God appeared at this time to be like fire shut up in his bones, and he called sinners to repentance, with an authority and power that greatly surprised his friends, and over awed the congregation. Soon after this he took a violent cold, that settled on his lungs and deprived him of his voice. He however so far recovered as to be able to visit some of his friends, though he was unable to speak a loud word.—His complaint terminated in a scrofulous swelling on each side of his neck, which was supposed to be the proximate cause of his death, on the 24th of September, 1817.

Our dear brother Smith was a man of deep piety, and good natural and acquired abilities, sound and acceptable preaching talents. He was diligent and successful in all places where he was stationed. In visiting from house to house, and exhorting, and praying with the people; he was equalled by few. In this work he delighted, and in this work he did prevail.

He was gentle and conciliating in his manners, very sincere and faithful in his friendships. Though he was naturally of a timid make, yet ardent zeal made him bold in the cause of his God.

His warm affection for the cause of Christ, and the friends of Jesus, with his deep concern for sinners were peculiarly manifest in all his public exercises. Nor did his faith weaken, or his zeal grow cold, but through the mighty grace of God which wrought within him, he pushed forward until feeble nature sunk beneath the weight. He was patient, resigned and triumphant in death, and is gone, we believe, to receive a crown of blessedness. He has left a wife and two small children to mourn their heavy loss.

Having a few spare pages, we make the following extract from the third report of the Hibernian Methodist Missionary Society, Dublin; which we believe will be pleasing to the friends of the missionary cause.

Ballymena, March 12, 1817.

“MY DEAR BROTHER,

“MORE than five years ago, when I came to this country as a Missionary, I was greatly cast down in taking a view of the barren state of this part of the kingdom, filled with strong prejudice of every kind. I had my fears that little impression could be made upon it. However, glory be to God, he can work with or without means. I can now say, the “barren wilderness has become a fruitful field, and many who were not a people, have become the people of God.”

“We have formed our Mission into two circuits, or Missions, Ballymena and Kilrea; in both of which we have 550 regular members of Society, the greater part of whom are converted to God. Since last Conference we have had a most glorious work in the county Derry, near Kilrea. At that time we laid aside our horses, and set out through the country on foot. In my judgment this is the best plan for a Missionary: I know it is not the most comfortable; for I can assure you, that many times in the course of the year, my poor feet have been dreadfully blistered. We entered into a resolution that we would go from door to door, and from village to village; and I can now say that God has been with us. In a small tract of country, between Kilrea and Garvagh, we have formed a circuit that receives two of our Missionaries every night in the month. We have also formed a Class in almost every village. Our congregations are very large, in general from one to three hundred; and I may say we are gloriously irregular. Our meetings sometimes continue five or six hours, while the people express the agony of their souls by strong and bitter cries to God for mercy and salvation. At one of these meetings sometime since, in the town of Kilrea, there were many converted. When the preachers and leaders were worn out, and could pray no more, the females began, and I think more delightful prayers I never heard in all my life. The work of conviction and conversion has gone through all the classes. Scarce a night passes but some are made happy in God. Indeed conversion and the love of God are the subjects in every house. One day while I preached in the street of Kilrea to a vast crowd, the Spirit of God applied the word with divine power to the hearts of the people. The whole congregation were melted down before the Lord. At the last prayer I think more than five hundred fell down on their knees in the street, while their hearty Amens were heard through all the town. There were four Church, and two Dissenting Ministers present. They seemed astonished indeed. However, one of them came forward after the Meeting, and thanked me for the Sermon; gave me an invitation to his house, and has been very friendly ever since. Our Love Feasts are carried on with spirit and life. If you were at one of these, and heard the simple people tell what the Lord had done for their souls, it would delight you very much. Some of them stand up and say, "Glory to God; it is just seven months since God pardoned my sins;" others five, and others one: old men and women, with streaming eyes, adoring the God of heaven, that sent the Missionaries to their houses; while many of the children, of ten years old, are savingly converted. In short there is almost nothing but prayer and praise in every house. In one little village, which was a seat of wickedness, the people are all nearly converted. Great crowds used to assemble here to fight cocks. On one of those occasions of late, there came only six persons, and they were so much ashamed, that they went home without fighting a cock at all. The man who was in the habit of selling whiskey in this town, had to shut his shop; he could get no person to buy his whiskey, there is such a general reformation in all the country. You are to observe, that many of those who have joined us are Dissenters, some of them Seceders, and some Roman Catholics. When this work began first, we knew not what to do for leaders; but the Lord took the matter into his own hand, and raised up sixteen or eighteen blessed, useful men of God, who are now leaders, and going through the country like a flame of fire, doing much good. We have regular leaders' meetings, where every leader speaks his experience. Mr. Ousley was at one of these some time ago: he says he has never seen such a body of men for their time.

Quest. 11. Who have withdrawn from the Connexion this year?

Ans. None.

Quest. 12. Were all the Preachers' characters examined before the Conference?

Ans. This was strictly attended to, by calling over their names before their respective Conferences.

Quest. 13. Who have Died this year?

Ans. 1. FLETCHER HARRIS, a native of Granville county, North-Carolina. His parents were respectable and pious, and taught him in early life the genuine principles of Christianity. In September 1811 he sought, and at a Camp-meeting, found the "pearl of great price," the forgiveness of sins. Thus united to God by faith, he looked around and beheld the whole world lying in wickedness. His mind now being filled with light from Heaven, he thought, were the greatest sinner on earth present, he could put him in possession of correct views of the plan of salvation! The spirit of the Lord was as fire in his bones, and he began immediately to warn sinners to flee the wrath to come; and in the year 1813 gave himself up wholly to the great work of the ministry; entered the itinerancy, and was appointed to travel Terrel circuit. In 1814, Neuse. At the Conference held in 1815, he was ordained deacon, and appointed to Bedford circuit. In 1816 he was stationed in Richmond. In 1817, he was ordained Elder, and stationed in Newbern, and in 1818, at Petersburg, where he finished his course.

In all these stations he manifested abundantly, by his pious walk, godly conversation, and ministerial labours, that he had been called of God to preach the gospel. This excellent young man was remarkable for his love to men universally, his charity to the poor, his readiness to relieve the distressed, and his constant and fervent devotion to God his heavenly father.

Humility in an eminent degree attended him both in private and in public.

In the pulpit it was manifested in his prayers, sermons and exhortations: who that had the pleasure of sitting under his ministry did not feel his heart either charmed or reproved by the brilliancy of this heavenly grace. To us it seemed that the Lord had designed him to be a minister of great and extensive usefulness, having blessed him with a strong, and penetrating mind, and powers of persuasion which drew and fixed the attention of both saints and sinners.

"But his morning sun went down 'ere noon."

During his affliction, which was long and severe, he had, as might have been expected, to drink of a mixed cup. But though the adversary of men did sometimes thrust at him sorely, yet he was enabled by the grace of God to rejoice in tribulations; and would call frequently on those who attended him to sing and pray. At one time he said, "sing

And let this feeble body fail,
 And let it faint or die;
 My soul shall quit the mournful vale,
 And soar to worlds on high:
 Shall join the disembodied saints
 And find its long sought rest:
 That only bliss for which it pants
 In the Redeemer's breast."

And at another time

"Jesus can make a dying bed
 Feel soft as downy pillows are,
 While on his breast I lean my head,
 And breathe my life out sweetly there."

It is stated by those who attended his bed of languishing, that blessed with the prospect of opening glory, he would shout aloud the praises of God: that a few days prior to his death, being supported in his bed, he preached to those present his last sermon, from "Receive us, we have wronged no man." Immediately after which, he shook hands with all around, bidding them an affectionate farewell.

He then said, "Glory to God, Jesus smiles and bids me come—Victory, Victory!!" A friend present said, Brother Harris, this is not dying; no, said he, it is living forever! Then turning to his weeping brother, he said, Tell the preachers at Conference, that I died in the triumphs of faith, that my last doctrine is, FREE SALVATION. He then mentioned by name his aged parents, brothers and sisters, and sent them an affectionate and last farewell. On September 18th about 10 o'clock, A. M. his brother, anxious to hear the sound of his voice once more, said, "Brother Fletcher, you are going to leave us." "Presently," said he, and in a few minutes sunk in death! But the soul, the immortal part arose, ascended on high, and mingled with disembodied spirits in the new Jerusalem, where

"Saints immortal reign;
Infinite day excludes the night.
And pleasures banish pain."

2. THOMAS LUCAS, a native of Maryland, was born in Prince George's County on the 8th day of June, 1732 (Old Stile). After continuing in the blindness of nature, and the practice of vice, till about the 40th year of his age, he was awakened to a full view of his guilt and misery by the ministry of Mr. Roddy, and other Methodist Ministers of that day. He obtained peace with God, and became a member of the Methodist Society, about the beginning of the Revolutionary war. In the year 1777, or 1778, he became a methodist preacher, and after labouring a considerable time successfully, as a local preacher, he was called to a more extensive sphere of action in the travelling Ministry, and commenced travelling on Baltimore circuit, June the 5th, 1791. From that time he continued to travel as a faithful and successful labourer, until the infirmities of old age obstructed his progress. He then received a superannuated relation, which he retained to the day of his death. In the year 1816, he was struck with a paralytic affection, from which time to the day of his dissolution, he was a man of great affliction. In his last illness he would frequently exclaim that a death bed was a poor time and place to make preparation for future happiness; but at the same time would express, with thankfulness to God, the assurance he felt, that his work was done, and that he was ready to be offered up. Thus he continued to suffer in peace and patience, till the 11th of January, 1819, when he yielded up his spirit to God, in the eighty-seventh year of his age.

3. JOSEPH STONE, was a native of England, born about the year 1742, and emigrated to America in the early part of his life; settled himself, and married in the state of Maryland. In a short time after, he was happily brought to an acquaintance with God by the remission of sins; and soon conceived it to be his duty to warn sinners to flee the wrath to come. This he did first as an Exhorter, and then in the capacity of a local Preacher; which character he sustained in the Methodist Church several years. He was admitted into the itinerancy in 1796, and appointed to Montgomery circuit; in 1797 and 1798, to Federal (now called Severn circuit); in 1799 to Fairfax; in 1800 and 1801 to Frederick; in 1802 to Huntingdon; in 1803 to Carlisle; in 1804 to Alleghany; in 1805 to Frederick; in 1806 to Winchester; in 1807, and 1808 to Fairfax; in 1809 to Berkley; in 1810 to Loudoun, and in 1811 the Conference granted him a superannuated relation, in which he was retained to the close of his life.

Joseph Stone was a plain, zealous, and useful minister of the gospel. The holy Scriptures were his greatest study, much of which he committed to memory. His heart was much engaged in the work of the Lord, and when from age, and infirmities he was disqualified for further public service, he still rejoiced to witness the prosperity of Zion. His attachment to the people of God, was both fervent and sincere, and he never appeared to be better satisfied, than when in company with his brethren in the Ministry. From serious afflictions and the weight of many years he seemed to totter on the margin of the grave long before his dissolution. A short time prior to his death he attended a Camp-Meeting in the County of Prince William, Virginia, principally for the purpose of seeing his Christian friends once more, and taking his final leave of them in this world. It was with great difficulty and pain that he reached his residence again, after having accomplished his object. From this period he was entirely confined, and sunk with great rapidity, insomuch that he appeared to have entertained little if any hope of recovery; and indeed he manifested a greater desire to die than to live; hence when his brethren prayed with him, he requested that they would not pray for his restoration; but that he might have a quick and easy exit from time to a glorious eternity. In the midst of his most excruciating pains, he praised the Lord aloud, and clapped his hands, exclaiming, glory, glory, glory,

“Jesus can make a dying bed,
Feel soft as downy pillows are
While on his breast I lean my head,
And breathe my life out sweetly there.”

The night before his departure, after his friends had concluded singing the following lines,

“Happy if with my latest breath
I may but gasp his name;
Preach him to all, and cry in death,
Behold, Behold, the Lamb,”

he raised both his hands, pointing upward, and with a faltering voice cried, “Behold, Behold the Lamb.”—The last words which he was heard to utter distinctly were, “glory, glory, glory,”—after which he immediately fell asleep in Jesus.

He departed this life on the 7th day of October, 1818, in the seventy-sixth year of his age, in the County of Fauquire, Virginia, and has left behind him an aged companion to lament the loss of an affectionate husband.

4. JOHN WESLEY BOND, born in Baltimore, state of Maryland, December 11, 1784. His father, Mr. Thomas Bond, was among the first fruits of Methodism in Maryland, having been brought to the knowledge of the truth, together with his first wife, through the instrumentality of the Rev. Mr. Strawbridge. Nothing very remarkable occurred in the life of John until the time of his conversion to God in 1800. His conviction of sin was deep, and the witness of justification and acceptance with God, clear.

After various and repeated exercises of mind, relative to his call to the work of the ministry, he was received on trial in the Baltimore Conference in 1810, and appointed to Calvert circuit with Brother Alfred Griffith.

In 1811, he was appointed to Fairfax; and in 1812 to Great-Falls circuit. In 1813, in consequence of peculiar family circumstances, he received a location.—His circumstances becoming more favourable he offered himself again to the Conference 1814, and was appointed to travel with Bishop Asbury, and continued with him as his constant attendant until the close of his life. The many infirmities of the aged Bishop imposed a laborious and important duty upon Brother Bond; which he discharged with firmness, fidelity, and perseverance.

In 1816, he was appointed to Severn circuit; and in 1817 and 1818, to Harford. In this circuit his labours were greatly blessed.

After the disorder of which he died, (the prevailing epidemic fever) had been fixed for several days, he left his circuit, and retired to Baltimore for the purpose of obtaining medical aid. His brother, a physician in the city, alarmed at the apparent danger of his situation, called to his assistance several of the most eminent physicians of the city, who kindly afforded him their aid.—But alas! all human efforts were now unavailing: the die was cast; and after a painful struggle of ten days, from the time he arrived in town, he died on the 22d of January, 1819.

For a few days in the beginning of the fatal disorder which terminated his mortal life, he was subject to great affliction and distress of mind; but the conflict soon closed in peace and triumph, which continued, without interruption, till his happy spirit entered into the perfect joy of his Lord.

Our beloved Brother Bond, possessed a clear understanding, and a sound judgment. His knowledge in divinity was far from being superficial—He was fond of reading,—patient and persevering in investigation, and diligent in all the duties of his christian and ministerial profession. But he rests from his labours, and his works follow him.

5. JOSEPH TOTTEN, our dearly beloved brother, was born in the township of Hempstead, Queen's county, Long-Island, on the 4th day of February, 1759. From an authentic document we learn, that he was restrained from prevailing vice, and lived what was called a moral life, until he heard the Methodist preachers, when he was deeply convinced of sin, and after a painful struggle, he obtained a sense of pardoning mercy and immediately united himself to the Methodist Church. He soon became conspicuous as an Exhorter and Leader, and was made useful to many in his neighbourhood. Satisfied of his call to the work of the ministry, he entered the travelling connexion in New-York, 1792, and was appointed to Elizabeth-town—1793 to Long-Island—1794 to Freehold—1795 to Brooklyn—1796, New-Rochelle—1797, Brooklyn—1798, New-Rochelle—1799, Dutchess—1800, Elizabethtown, 1801, ditto, 1802, ditto.—1803, Burlington,—1804, Trenton—1805, Gloucester—1806, Philadelphia—1807, 1808, 1809, and 1810, on Jersey-District—1811, New-Brunswick—1812, New-Brunswick and Trenton—1813, Bergen—1814, Freehold—1815, and 1816, Essex and Staten Island—1817, Sussex and Hamburg—1818 appointed to St. John's in Philadelphia, where he finished his course. Of our dear departed friend we may say, he was a man of piety: through keen conviction for sin, he was brought to experience redemption in the blood of Christ; and in possession of this grace we believe he lived, and died. He was a man of zeal, which led him by every means in his power to promote the glory of God, and the happiness of his fellow-creatures. He was a man of Christian courage, which enabled him boldly to declare the whole council of God, to saints and sinners, without partiality; fearing no faces, sparing no crimes. We have reason to believe that God owned his labours, and made him useful to numbers. We are authorized to say that through the whole of his travels, he never solicited an appointment, nor refused to go wheresoever he was appointed.

After receiving his last appointment at the Philadelphia Conference, he returned to his family on Staten-Island, and on May 10, preached in the meeting-house at Westfield, from 1 Cor. ii. 2, "For I determined not to know any thing among you, save Jesus Christ, and him crucified." After service he descended from the pulpit, and walked, with his wife, into the burying ground, and marked out the spot, saying, "there I wish to be buried," as though he apprehended his end was nigh. He left Staten-Island, May the 15th, arrived in Philadelphia on the Saturday following, and preached three times on the Sabbath, and again on Tuesday evening. It was remarked by his friends, that divine energy attended the truth which he delivered. He this evening declared before he retired to rest, that he was perfectly well; but how uncertain is life! Early the next morning he was taken unwell—some means were applied which appeared to afford a temporary relief—others were preparing. In the mean time he went into the yard, and the barking of the dog leading Mrs. Cox to look after him, she discovered him lying on the ground in the garden; from which he was raised and brought into the house, but expired in a few moments, without uttering a word.

6. DANIEL MOORE was a native of Sussex county, state of Delaware, and was born October, 1794. His parents, who were among the first Methodists in these parts, endeavoured "to train him up in the way in which he should walk." His moral deportment in childhood and youth, was generally unblamable; nevertheless, as early as the eleventh year of his age, he was convinced of the necessity of a change of heart, and sought and found the Lord in the pardon of his sins. He found this pearl of great price in a love-feast, on the 15th of December, 1805, ten days after which he attached himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church.

In June, 1811, he professed to experience a deeper work of grace in his soul; soon after which he was appointed to lead a class: his labours as a class leader appeared to be blessed of God, and to be crowned with considerable success. Near the end of the year 1813 he was licensed to exhort; three months after which he was licensed to preach, and at the same time was recommended to the Philadelphia annual Conference (held in April, 1814) to become a travelling preacher, when he was received on trial, and appointed to Cambridge circuit, eastern shore of Maryland. In 1815 he was appointed to Essex and Staten-Island. In 1816 he was again appointed to Essex and Staten-Island. In February, 1817, he married; and in the same year was appointed to Trenton circuit, New-Jersey, where his health began to fail early in the month of July. His indisposition appeared to be the result of incessant labour and frequent colds, which brought on an inflammation of the throat and lungs. After some weeks confinement, he recovered a little, and travelled to the upper part of the state. And as winter was approaching, and medical aid seemed to be ineffectual, it was thought advisable that he should travel to the southward: accordingly he went to his father's house in October, and spent the winter there. For a short time the change of climate seemed to be of advantage to him, but as the cold weather came on, he grew worse, and passed the winter in great sufferings and pain of body. In May his disease considerably abated, in consequence of which he was enabled to take a little exercise, until about the middle of June, when he relapsed, and his sufferings returned with increasing violence, until death terminated his earthly existence.

After his arrival at his father's house, he frequently expressed an ardent desire to preach once more before his death; and about the middle of winter he had an opportunity of fulfilling his wish. At a prayer-meeting held in his father's house, he stood up and gave out these words—"I am the way, the truth, and the life," from which he preached about forty minutes, and then falling back on the bed, he observed "that his work was finished."

Death was a topic on which he frequently conversed through the course of his illness; and in the two last weeks of his life, he spoke of his own death with apparent satisfaction. On one occasion he remarked "that he had given up all expectation of living much longer, and that he waited with earnest expectation for the moment to arrive, when he should exchange his sufferings for heaven." About ten days before his death he gave some directions about his burial, and desired that brother Daily should be sent for to preach his funeral sermon. He said, "give my love to brother Force, and tell him I am going home to God." His wife asked him if he had any temptations; he replied, "none."—For several days before his death he seemed to possess uninterrupted peace of soul, and the strongest confidence in God. His dissolution was expected for several days: the period at last arrived, and he exhibited tokens of tranquility of mind, even while he was in the agonies of death. His senses and his life both failed together, and he fell asleep in the arms of a merciful Saviour on the second day of July, 1818, at two o'clock, A. M.

His sufferings are ended, and he is gone to reap the reward of his labours. The sorrow of his relations is pungent, "but they sorrow not as those who have no hope; for they believe that Jesus died and rose again, and that even so, them also which sleep in Jesus, will God bring with him."

Daniel Moore was "a good minister of Jesus Christ." The people among whom he laboured, will recollect with mingled emotions of gratitude and love, his wholesome example, his godly admonitions, and evangelical strains of pulpit discourses always pointed, spiritual, and well-suited to accomplish the great end of the Christian ministry. He has left behind him an afflicted widow to lament the loss of so valuable a friend, so affectionate an husband, while he is torn from the affectionate regards of hundreds who were favoured to sit under his ministry; with no inconsiderable degree of religious edification: all, however, should concur with Job in a sentiment of common resignation, "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away, blessed be the name of the Lord."

7. THOMAS THORP, born in New-Brunswick, A. D. 1792. His father died when he was a child; and at eight years of age he removed with his mother to Weston, in Connecticut. When he was about sixteen years old he was awakened and converted under the preaching of the Methodists, and soon united himself with them in church fellowship. On the 12th of October, 1811, he was licensed as a local preacher. In 1812, he was recommended to the New-York Annual Conference, and admitted on trial in the travelling ministry, and stationed on Granville circuit. In 1813 he was appointed to Westmoreland circuit, in the Genesee Conference, where he suffered much affliction of body. In 1814 he received an appointment to Litchfield circuit; but in consequence of ill health his labours were chiefly confined to Goshen in Connecticut. In 1815 he was stationed on Rhinebeck circuit—1816, in Middletown; and in 1817, in New-Haven. In 1818 he received his appointment in New-York, where “he finished his course” in peace and triumph on Sabbath the 17th of January, 1819.

Our beloved Brother Thorp was possessed of strong natural powers of mind, which were much improved by regular and diligent application to study. His apprehension of the doctrines of the gospel was comprehensive and clear, and his method of illustrating and applying them, plain and convincing. His patience and resignation during a long and severe affliction, and the calmness and fortitude with which he met and sustained the last tremendous conflict, may well stand as a grand example to those who follow him.

8. STEPHEN JACOB. He was born in the town of Argyle, county of Washington, and state of New-York, on the 23d day of February, 1789, of pious parents. His father, Richard Jacob, who was at that time a Methodist Local Preacher, was ordained a Deacon at the Conference held in New-York, A. D. 1795; and after spending the greatest part of the following winter in preaching the gospel in some new settlements in the neighbourhood of Lake Champlain, he was about to return home in the month of April, 1796, when in attempt.

ing to swim his horse across a small stream, called Schaaron river, he was drowned.

It does not appear that Stephen, the subject of this memoir, although religiously educated, was much concerned about a future state until seventeen years of age : from which time he became more thoughtful, and was variously exercised concerning religion, and eternal things, till on the 21st of February, 1810, he happily experienced the justifying and renewing grace of God. Soon after he was converted he began to be concerned for the welfare of his fellow creatures, and at times to pray with and exhort them to flee from the wrath to come. These exercises soon attracted the attention of his brethren, and he was licensed as an exhorter on Cambridge circuit, January 10, 1811. His first license to preach was dated on Saratoga circuit, March 28th, 1812. He was received as a travelling preacher at the Conference held in Albany, in the month of June ensuing, and graduated to Elders orders. He travelled the following circuits, viz: New-Windsor and White-Lake, 1812; Ulster, 1813; Delaware, 1814 and 1815; Newburgh, 1816 and 1817; and at the Conference in 1818, in consequence of ill health, was placed in a superannuated relation. Soon after he went to the Delaware circuit, he was married to the widow of our brother Hugh Armstrong, by whom he had two children one of which was safely lodged in Abraham's bosom before him. The other is still living to know the heart of an orphan.

Our brother Jacob was a man of weak nerves; but of an uncommon flow of spirits. As a preacher he was zealous, industrious, laborious, acceptable and useful. He laboured far beyond his strength, and may be said to have fallen a martyr to his work. As a disciplinarian, he was vigilant, strict, and sometimes even rigid. The foundation of his last illness was laid in February, 1817, while travelling Newburgh circuit; which, in its first attack, was an inflammation of the lungs, that terminated in a slow consumption, and finally ended in death. During his illness he was variously exercised in his mind, and until within a few hours of his death, seemed to be confident that he should recover. However, he uniformly professed a confidence in God, and a desire that his will should be done; but in his last moments, while viewing himself in the arms of death, his soul was in holy triumph, and in answer to the following questions, "Does perfect love cast out all fear? Are you happy?" &c. He replied, no fear—happy—hail, king—heaven heaves in view, &c. &c. When no longer able to speak, he raised his hands in token of victory. Thus after a long and tedious illness, on Saturday evening about sun-set, April 24th, 1819, his happy spirit returned to God in the thirty-first year of his age, and seventh of his ministry.

His funeral was attended on the following Monday, and a sermon delivered from 1 Thess. iv. 14th, "For if we believe that Jesus died, and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him."

9. JASON WALKER, a native of Ashby, state of Massachusetts, born February 17, 1793. He became a subject of regenerating grace, and joined the Methodist society, when he was about seventeen years of age.— He successfully filled the offices of Class-Leader, Exhorter and Local Preacher, till in June, 1813, he was received on trial in the travelling connexion. He was ordained Deacon in 1815, and Elder in 1817. He laboured acceptably and profitably on the following circuits, Wethersfield, 1813. Barre, 1814. Bristol, Somerset, and Rhode-Island, 1815. Mansfield, 1816. Here he laid the foundation of that disease which terminated his earthly existence. At the Conference held in June, 1818, he received an appointment to Warwick circuit, where he continued to travel and labour till the first of October. From this time he continued under the painful affliction of a lingering consumption till April 10, 1819, when he closed his sufferings and his life together in Smithfield, Rhode-Island. Humility, zeal, patience, and fortitude under suffering shone with peculiar lustre in this devoted servant of Jesus Christ. His mind, elevated by the principles of religion, rose superior to his deepest sufferings, and took firm hold of Immortality.—

His soul was kept in perfect peace during the whole of his long and painful confinement; and he passed the valley of the shadow of death in calmness, joy and triumph.

None.

Quest. 12. Were all the Preachers' characters examined before the Conference?

Ans. This was strictly attended to, by calling over their names before their respective Conferences.

Quest. 13. Who have died this year?

Ans. 1. JOHN T. BRAME. The subject of the following memoir was born of respectable parentage in Caroline county, Virginia, in August, 1792, and being brought under serious awakenings, through the instrumentality of the Methodists, was happily converted to God in the fourteenth year of his age. His subsequent life, while a private member of the church, was marked with piety; so that by his exemplary deportment (though at this time but a youth) he evinced to beholders the soundness of his conversion, and the sincerity of his religious profession.

Having been previously convinced that God had called him to the ministry, he came forward in the twenty-third year of his age, and offered himself to the Virginia Conference, as a candidate for the itinerancy; and being admitted on trial, he was sent in 1815 to Tar-river circuit; in 1816 to Williamsburgh; in 1817 he was ordained a Deacon, and appointed to Camden and Edenton; in 1818 he was appointed to Newbern station; in 1819 he was ordained an Elder, and sent back to Newbern, where, in the 27th year of his age, he terminated his labours and life.

In all these stations he had the satisfaction to see the pleasure of the Lord prosper in his hands ; and there are many, where he has laboured, who speak of him in exalted terms, and will have cause to praise God in eternity for the benefit they derived from his Christian and ministerial exertions.

As to his manners and disposition ; in conversation he was affable and edifying ; serious, but not sad ; cheerful, but not subject to levity.

He was blest with a good natural mind, which he did not fail to cultivate. His studies were principally confined to the bible, and such books as tend to the knowledge and love of God. And, therefore, " his preaching was not with enticing words of man's wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit and of power, that the faith of his hearers should not stand in the wisdom of men, but in the power of God."

On the 21st of September he was attacked with a remittent billious fever, which put a period to his earthly existence on the 29th, a little after seven o'clock in the evening. From the time he was taken ill till the day of his departure, (with very little variation) he firmly believed that his sickness was unto death. All necessary medical aid was called to his assistance, to save (if possible) our friend and brother from the cold hand of death. But neither the aid of his physicians, nor the prayers and tears of his Presiding Elder and friends, who were present, could stay the hand of the king of terrors.

For several days during his affliction, he was thrust sorely at by the enemy of souls, who strove to wrest from him his confidence ; but so far from yielding to his suggestions, he was almost constantly engaged in prayer, when in his right mind : for such was the violence of his fever that he was frequently delirious ; but even then, (as his Presiding Elder affirms) the voice of prayer never failed to call him to his right mind. But at length, while the Presiding Elder and others were engaged in supplicating a throne of grace in his behalf, light broke into his soul, so that he was enabled to rejoice in hope of future glory ; and continued in this state of ecstasy and triumph till the silver cord of life which connected soul and body, broke, and the immortal spirit took its flight to the paradise of God. Thus lived, laboured, and died brother Brame, who has left a disconsolate widow to lament the loss of an affectionate husband ; they having lived together but a few months. And in him the church has lost a valuable and useful member. But while we, who survive his dissolution, deplore our loss, he is, we believe, mingling his voice with happy angelic myriads around the throne. O that like him,

“ Without a lingering groan,
I may the welcome word receive ;
My body with my charge lay down,
And cease at once to work and live.”

2. GEORGE BURNETT, the subject of the following memoir, was a native of Virginia, born in Pittsylvania county, December 8th, 1789. In early life the duties and importance of religion were inculcated on his mind ; and having been brought under serious awakenings, through the influence of divine grace, “ he fled for refuge to lay hold on the hope which was set before him,” and was soon enabled to testify that “ God has power on earth to forgive sins.”

Not long after this, he felt his mind impressed that “ a dispensation of the gospel was committed to him ;” and in compliance with this divine injunction, being duly recommended, he came forward and offered himself to the Virginia Conference, and was appointed in 1817 to Yadkin circuit ; in 1818 to Albermarle Sound, and in 1819 to New-River, where, on the 15th of September, he departed this life, and changed the cross of suffering for the crown of life.

On September 11th, about four o'clock in the afternoon, he arrived at the house of a friend, eat his dinner, and appeared cheerful. A little after which he was attacked with a chill, and about seven o'clock became delirious, and incapable of speaking. Two physicians were immediately called in, and under the blessing of God, and through their instrumentality, on Sunday about two o'clock he began (apparently) to recover; and on Monday morning was so much better as to furnish his friends ground to hope that he would again appear on the walls of Zion, "pointing to the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world;" and he sat up for some time, and conversed about pursuing his journey, expressing his hope that he would soon be able to meet an appointment of a two days meeting he had made, and also to attend his next quarterly meeting.— But alas! how soon were the hopes of his friends, and his own expectations blasted; for in the afternoon his fever returned, which was succeeded by delirium and the loss of speech again. And though all human means were used to save his life, it was to no purpose; for he sank under his disease, and soon expired.

Thus died our beloved brother, in the 30th year of his age, in full assurance of a blessed immortality, and is now (no doubt) triumphing where the wicked cease from troubling, and the weary are at rest.

“ Yes, his Christian course is run,
 Ended in glorious strife :
 Fought the fight, his work is done,
 Death is swallow'd up in life.
 Borne by angels on their wings,
 Far from earth his spirit flies ;
 Finds his God, and sits and sings,
 Triumphant in paradise.”

Travelling Preachers 904.

* The following circuits, viz. Georgetown, Anapolis, and Calvert, were not returned in the manuscript minutes of Baltimore District; but allowing the numbers to be the same this year as last, which is the only data we have to guide us, they amount to 3409, which, added to the above, will make an increase of 19366.

Having a few vacant pages, we insert the following Constitution of the Missionary Society, established by the last General Conference.

CONSTITUTION.

Article I. This association shall be denominated "The Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church;" the object of which is, to enable the several Annual Conferences more effectually to extend their missionary labours throughout the United States, and elsewhere.

Article 2. The business of this Society shall be conducted by a President, thirteen Vice-Presidents, Clerk, Recording and Corresponding Secretary, Treasurer, and thirty-two Managers, all of whom shall be members of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The President, first two Vice Presidents, Clerk, Secretaries, Treasurer, and the thirty-two Managers, shall be elected by the Society annually; and each annual Conference shall have the privilege of appointing one Vice President from its own body.

Article 3. Thirteen members at all meetings of the board of Managers, and twenty-five at all meetings of the Society, shall be a quorum.

Article 4. The Board shall have authority to make by-laws for regulating its own proceedings, fill up vacancies that may occur during the year, and shall present a statement of its transactions and funds to the Society at its annual meeting; and also lay before the General Conference a report of its transactions for the four preceding years, and state of its funds.

Article 5. Ordained Ministers of the Methodist Episcopal Church, whether travelling or local, being members of the Society, shall be ex-officio members of the board of Managers, and be entitled to vote in all meetings of the Board.

Article 6. The board of Managers shall have authority, whenever they may deem it expedient and requisite, to procure Bibles and Testaments for distribution, on such terms as they may judge most advisable, provided they shall not at any time apply to this object more than one third of the amount of the funds received for the current year.

Article 7. Each subscriber paying two dollars annually, shall be a member ; and the payment of twenty dollars at one time, shall constitute a member for life.

Article 8. Auxiliary Societies, embracing the same objects with this, shall if they request it, be supplied with Bibles and Testaments at cost ; provided the same shall not amount to more than one third the monies received from such Auxiliary Societies, and that after supplying their own districts with Bibles and Testaments, they shall agree to place their surplus funds at the disposal of this Society.

Article 9. The annual meeting of the Society shall be held on the third Monday in April.

Article 10. The President, Vice Presidents, Clerk, Secretaries, and Treasurer for the time being, shall be ex-officio members of the board of Managers.

Article 11. At all meetings of the Society, and of the Board, the President, or in his absence, the Vice President first on the list then present, and in the absence of all the Vice Presidents, such member as shall be appointed by the meeting for that purpose, shall preside.

Article 12. The minutes of each meeting shall be signed by the Chairman.

Article 13. The Treasurer of this Society, under the direction of the Board of Managers, shall give information to the Superintendents annually, or oftener if the Managers judge it expedient, of the state of the funds, and of the amount for which drafts may be made thereon, for the missionary purposes contemplated by this Constitution ; agreeably to which information, the Superintendents shall have authority to draw on the Treasurer for the same, and to pay over the amount to the Missionary or Missionaries appointed by them, either wholly at once, or by instalments, at the discretion of the Superintendents ; provided the drafts of all the Superintendents together shall not amount to more than the sum thus authorized to be drawn for, and that the appropriation for the support of any Missionary or Missionaries, shall always be regulated by the rules which now are, or hereafter may be established for the support of other itinerant Ministers and Preachers of the Methodist Episcopal Church; and provided also that the appropriations and payments which may be made by the Superintendents under this article, shall be communicated as soon as practicable thereafter to the Board of Managers for insertion in their annual report.

Article 14. This Constitution shall not be altered but by the General Conference, on the recommendation of the board of Managers.
